Part III DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restriction

1. Claims 7 and 8 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected products, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in Paper No. 6.

Drawings

2. This application has been filed with informal drawings which are acceptable for examination purposes only. Formal drawings will be required when the application is allowed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

4. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Dean et al. (U.S. Pat. No. 4,978,616).

5. Dean et al. teach a continuous bioreactor whereby yeast is propagated by being led through a membrane oxygenator, that can be made of silicone (col. 15, lines 5-23). Fig. 4 shows one of the preferred apparatus configurations.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 3-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dean et al. (U.S. Pat. No. 4,978,616) in view of Coutts (U.S. Pat. No. 6,149,949).

8. Dean et al. teach that cited above but does not teach the use of the oxygenated yeast in the production of beer. Coutts teaches the addition of "oxygenated yeast cells" to a beer fermentation tank (col. 4, lines 47-55).

9. Because Coutts is silent as to the addition of oxygen directly to fermentor, it is assumed that he does not. Nevertheless, it is notoriously well known in the brewing art to add oxygen in varying amounts to wort to aid in its fermentation and therefore it would have been obvious to those of ordinary skill in the art to add some amount of oxygen to fermentor for its art recognized benefits.
